Launch Your First Compliance Program with Confidence

Get Compliant Faster with AI Automation

Your first compliance program should help you move faster—not create a new operational burden. Centralize requirements, evidence, and tasks in one system designed for lean teams. With Drata, automated tests, continuously collected evidence, and guided workflows help you launch your first framework with confidence—without relying on spreadsheets or reinventing the process. Plus, with multi-framework support, it's easy to add additional frameworks when you need them.

Simplify the Audit Process

You're an expert in your business—not in the business of compliance. And with Drata, you don't have to be. By automatically mapping controls and requirements, Drata eliminates guesswork and gives clear direction throughout the process. Plus, by enabling direct communication with auditors via Audit Hub, it's easier to keep track of information and provide the necessary evidence during the audit.

Provide Trust Assurance Early

Customers and prospects often ask for proof of security before your team is ready to answer every question manually. Give buyers a simple, always-on place to access key trust documentation and common answers.

With Drata, you control access to your branded Trust Center so prospects can self-serve trust reviews and your team can spend less time chasing documents over email.

Start Simple and Scale When Ready

Your first framework is a huge step, but it's often just the beginning. Drata gives you a structured way to launch now while building a foundation that can support more frameworks, more customers, and more trust requirements over time.

With low-lift implementation today, you get a system that works for a lean team and grows with you as compliance becomes a bigger part of your business.
